The historic HEEP 2020 investment subsidy used eligible net SGST paid by a qualifying enterprise as the basis for assistance. Its value depends on the unit's category, block location, investment and actual tax payment. A business with a large turnover can still have a much smaller eligible cash-ledger payment after input tax credit.

Policy period and present-day use

This explanation covers the notification issued under HEEP 2020. Haryana notified its Progressive MSME & Export Promotion Policy on 29 July 2026, expressly superseding HEEP 2020. An older claim and a new investment therefore need separate checks of the transition provisions, relevant dates and operative scheme instructions. The historic benefit below should not be entered as an assured receipt in a new project budget.

Establish the right category first

The July 2021 notification contains different provisions for MSMEs, large and mega projects, specified sectors, services and other defined categories. It also addresses qualifying expansion and diversification. The rate, benefit period and fixed-capital-investment ceiling must all come from the same applicable category.

An expansion assessment needs the existing investment base and the additional plant and machinery separately identified. A new company name or GST registration alone does not prove that an existing operation is a qualifying new investment.

Work from the cash ledger

The notified net SGST definition concerns cash-ledger payment against SGST output liability on eligible products, after using eligible input tax credit, including applicable IGST credit. The claim therefore needs a reconciliation from returns and credit utilisation to cash payment and the eligible unit's activity.

Prepare a year-by-year schedule showing the eligible tax amount, applicable subsidy share, amount already claimed and the remaining investment ceiling. This makes both the annual calculation and cumulative benefit visible. Where several units share a registration, the attribution method needs specific examination before a figure is presented.

Claim preparation

The core records are the unit's constitution and registrations, location, production date, investment invoices and payments, fixed-asset schedule, GST returns and ledgers. Preserve earlier eligibility orders, claim decisions and departmental correspondence for a continuing claim.

The filing route and period should be checked against the notification governing that unit and any transition instructions. A general policy summary cannot establish the admissibility of a particular tax year.
