PADMA Entrepreneurship Acceleration is intended for eligible start-ups developing innovative ideas related to approved PADMA product categories. It supports early steps such as proof of concept, prototype development, product trials, market entry and commercialisation.

This is different from routine capital assistance for any newly incorporated business. The proposal must establish the innovation, customer need and route to a viable product or service.

What the notification provides

The March 2024 scheme specifies ₹20 lakh assistance for qualifying start-ups inside an approved PADMA cluster and ₹10 lakh outside it in the relevant block around the identified product. It also limits the number of supported start-ups. Those limits mean a policy period through 16 August 2028 does not prove that a place or funding remains available.

The scheme requires recognised start-up status under Haryana's applicable framework, a registered office in Haryana and a technology-related approach to the identified problem. It excludes an entity formed merely by splitting or reconstructing an existing business from its start-up definition. Similar incentives under other state policies are restricted.

Prepare a proposal that can be assessed

Explain the problem, the proposed solution, what has already been demonstrated and what the requested support will achieve. A prototype plan should identify the technical milestone and evidence of success. Market-entry work should identify the intended customer and evidence of demand.

Keep incorporation and recognition records, ownership details, product-category linkage, project budget, existing funding and milestone evidence together. Identify prior government support clearly. Submit the prescribed proposal for departmental and programme examination, and record sanction conditions before spending against an expected award.

Is recognition as a start-up enough?

No. Recognition is one condition. The proposed work must also fit the PADMA category, innovation and other programme requirements.

Does this fund an ordinary machinery expansion?

A routine expansion should be assessed under its relevant investment scheme, such as PADMA Capital Investment Subsidy where its conditions apply. Acceleration support requires the specific early-stage innovation case described in the notification.
